Trail Day Saturday, April 25, 11 am

Good thing Blake Kelly brought the Deuce back for Chainsaw Day last Saturday. Otherwise he, Lou Mitchell, Tom Stoll, and others would never have gotten that old maple tree back to the barn so easily. It'll be "just" a pile of firewood in a couple days. Given that we made $900 last year selling firewood, $5 at a time, that's terrific!

This Saturday, in addition to log splitting and stacking, we've got buildings to clean, lawns and flowerbeds to rake, signs to paint, and campgrounds to spruce up.

Thank you to all who participated last week.

Full details are on the website.

Egg Hunt. Sunday, April 26, 1 p.m. We'll hike to collect amphibian eggs and set up an egg-hatching system.

Full Moon Hike. Saturday, May 2, 8 p.m. Come explore Salt Springs in the moonlight.

Annual Roadside Clean-Up. Sunday, May 3, 9 a.m. We work in teams on park roads. Bring a truck if you can. We supply gloves and bags.

North American Migration Count. Saturday, May 9, 7 a.m. Evan Mann will lead this walk to document bird species.

Find some Flowers for Mom. Sunday, May 10, 2 p.m. We'll cover 1.5 miles looking for wildflowers.

Star Party. Saturday, May 23, 8 p.m. Mike and Mary Sinkovich will share some tips on using a telescope, and we'll view the night sky.

Virtual Bike Ride Across America. Sunday, May 24, 8 p.m. Jim Yeich shares his experience via stories and slide show.

Bike the Border. Monday, May 25, 1:30 p.m. Work off those holiday chips 'n dip with a ride through the park.

Endless Mountains Farm Fest

Saturday, May 30, 10 a.m.

This celebration of our cultural and agricultural heritage is coordinated by Jennifer Sartell and held at Salt Springs. Blue Roof Bakery (gluten-free goodies), Living Ledge (vertical window gardening), and Mountain Fiber and Soaps are new this year. Jeffrey Frazier, author of the Pennsylvania Fireside Tales series, is the featured speaker.

In Brief

The Wheaton House opens for the season on Saturday, May 2. Thank you to Mary Lathrop and Penny and John Nagy for joining our Weekend Host program this year.

We are pleased to announce that we were awarded an $800 grant from the Susquehanna County Conservation District in support of our E3 program.

Fall Brook and Silver Creek were stocked with trout on April 14, and the season began on the 18th. Fall Brook will be stocked again on the 28th.

Garbage sure does look better all bagged up. Toni Rafferty and her son and grandkids tackled an old dump site we found. Thanks!
